BullionFund Announces Class G Units for Global Investors

Toronto, ON – June 15, 2006 – The Millennium BullionFund™, Canada’s first and only open-end mutual fund trust that invests in gold, silver and platinum bullion, now offers a new class of units for global accredited investors. The new Class G units are designed for pension funds, endowment funds, foundations, insurance companies, hedge funds, wrap products and high-net worth individuals with management fees geared to the investment.

“We developed the Class G Units as a result of increased interest from outside of North America. Investors and their advisors are seeking a position in bullion for hedging and as an important part of a properly diversified portfolio” said Nick Barisheff, president of Bullion Marketing Services, the distributor of the fund.

The benefits of an allocation to bullion have recently been confirmed in a study by Ibbotson Associates that concluded that allocations of 7.1%, 12.5% and 15.7% for conservative, moderate and aggressive portfolios could increase expected returns and reduce portfolio risk. A summary of the report is available at www.bmgbullion.com.

The Millennium BullionFund™ has a fixed investment policy of purchasing equal dollar amounts of each metal. It provides the full benefits of bullion itself by providing daily liquidity at Net Asset Value, and employs no hedging, leasing or market timing. The bullion is stored on a fully allocated, segregated and insured basis with Scotia Mocatta in Toronto. The purchase and storage in Canada avoids any VAT on the purchase and no Canadian withholding taxes apply on redemption.
